

ATTERBURY

New Albany Daily Ledger 10-11-1851 p2c5 Died. On yesterday the 10th inst., at 12 o'clock M., SYLVESTER L. (Atterbury), infant son of Rev. Jno. G. and C. J. Atterbury, aged thirteen months. [d: 10-10-1851]

Persons Buried In Ground Owned By the City of New Albany 1841 - 1852, p. 9
ATTERBURY, Rev'd inf/o #1262 14 mos. 11 Oct. 1851 NBG P1 R2 Lot 2 [d: 10-10-1851]

Fairview Cemetery, Vol. I, p. 7 Atterbury, Mr. i/o; 1561B; 6 mos.; Feb 25, 1853; P4 R8 Lot 19

Fairview Cemetery, Vol. I, p. 7 Atterbury, Mr. i/o; 1807B; 3 dys.; Jan 27, 1854; P4 R9 Lot 19

New Albany Daily Ledger 03-02-1860 p2c3 Died. This morning, MARY ELIZABETH (Atterbury), child of John G. and Catharine L. Atterbury, aged sixteen months. The funeral will take place tomorrow at five o'clock P.M., at the family residence, No. 504 Main street. [d: 03-02-1860]

Fairview Cemetery, Vol. I, p. 7 Atterbury, Mr. i/o; 3390B; 17 mo.; Mar 4, [1861]; P4; Inflammation of Brain; Dr. Sloan [d: 03-02-1860]

A DISCOURSE: MEMORIAL OF WILLIAM C. CONNER, ESQ., PREACHED IN THE SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, NEW ALBANY, MARCH 25TH, 1860, THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER HIS DEATH, BY JOHN G. ATTERBURY, PASTOR. NEW ALBANY, IND.: NORMAN, MORRISON & MATTHEWS, PRINTERS. 1860. [This original pamphlet containing the complete memorial sermon can be found in VF CONNER.]

Fairview Cemetery, Vol. I, p. 18 Conner, William; 3401B; 54; Mar 20, [1861]; P4 R1; Tifoid Fever; Dr. Sloan [d: 1860]

New Albany Daily Ledger 01-10-1861 p2c4 Died. Yesterday. EDWARD MANN (Atterbury), infant child of John G. and Catherine J. Atterbury. The funeral will take place from the family residence to-morrow (Friday) at 10 o'clock A.M. [d: 01-09-1861]

New Albany Daily Ledger 12-27-1865 p2c3 Married. On Tuesday evening December 26th, at the Second Presbyterian Church, New Albany, Indiana, by the Rev. J. G. Atterbury, Mr. CHARLES H. CONNER to Miss KITTIE B. ATTERBURY, daughter of the officiating clergyman, all of this city. [m: 12-26-1865]

New Albany Daily Commercial 07-02-1866 p3c2 Rev. Mr. Atterbury. We regret to learn that this eminent divine has been compelled, on account of failing health, to dissolve his connection with the New Albany Presbytery and the Pastorate of the Second Church of this city. Dr. Atterbury has felt for some time that this step would have to be taken, and none regret it more than himself. He asked the church last week to accept his resignation, the same to take effect next Sunday, but it was with great reluctance that the members would consent to his request. He will remove to Detroit next week, at which place he will probably make his future residence. Mr. Atterbury, by his modest demeanor, affability and decision of character, has endeared himself to the members of the church as well as those of our citizens who have had the pleasure of his acquaintance. It will be a matter of deep regret with his many friends to part, but they can recommend him to the care and protection of those he will be sure to find at his new home. P.S. – Since the above was in type we learn that Dr. Atterbury took formal leave of the congregation at communion yesterday afternoon, and will leave the city on Wednesday. His friends are invited to call at the parsonage this evening, between the hours of seven and ten, where he will be glad to see them all.

New Albany Ledger 11-22-1884 p4c3 PERSONALS. Last Wednesday evening, at Battle Creek, Michigan, Mr. Allen W. Atterbury, well known in this city, was married to Miss Hattie Nichols, the second daughter of the senior member of the wealthy and widely known manufacturing firm of Nichols, Shepherd & Co. Mr. Atterbury and his fair bride arrived in the city this morning, and will spend their honeymoon at Daisy Farm, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Conner.

New Albany Tribune 08-25-1887 p4c3 DEATH OF REV. DR. ATTERBURY. The Rev. John G. Atterbury died at his residence in Detroit, Michigan, yesterday. This announcement though not unlooked for will cause a pang of deep regret in the hearts of his many and warmly attached friends in this city. From 1850 to 1867 he was the beloved and honored pastor of the Second Presbyterian church. His strong Christian character, marked by great practical wisdom and gentlemanly courtesy made him power for good throughout our entire community. He retained a strong partiality for the city where his life work was mainly performed. Ever manifesting the liveliest interest in all its great interests. He was born in the city of New York; a graduate of Yale University. After giving several years to the profession of the law in Detroit, he entered the Gospel ministry. He was first settled in Flint, Mich., whence he was called to this city. He was then Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Education for the Ministry at New York, for some years. His daughter, Mrs. C. H. Conner and husband, of this city, were present, with other members of his family at the hour of his death. Dr. Atterbury was in the seventy-sixth year of his age. Announcement of the time and place of funeral will be made hereafter. [d: 08-24-1887]

New Albany Ledger 09-20-1887 p6c3 Chas. H. Conner, One of New Albany's best business men, who by his honesty and fair dealing has won a reputation worth more than gold, was born and reared, and still resides here, owning and occupying one of the nicest suburban places about the city. Mr. Conner is a manufacturer and dealer in slate, iron, tin and asphalt roofing. While Mr. Conner is here, and fully identified with the interests of New Albany, and receives many orders here by mail and otherwise for his goods, his works are in Louisville. Mr. Conner's establishment burnt out some time ago, but has been rebuilt and is now much better than before the fire.

Mr. Conner is the leading man in the State and National Sunday School Unions, doing a great work in the interest of the young, but his zeal in that cause, determined that all shall be done to advance the Sunday School interest that is possible for man to do, is no greater than his energy and push in his business. Persons trusting such a man with their orders will always get straight goods. He may be addressed at this city or Louisville.

New Albany Daily Ledger 08-24-1901 p4c2 Charles H. Conner, a former well known citizen of New Albany, died today at Virginia Beach, Va., where he was staying for his health, aged fifty-eight years. He was stricken with paralysis about five years ago, and his death resulted from a recurrence of the disease. The body will be brought to this city for burial. [d: 08-24-1901]

New Albany Daily Ledger 08-26-1901 p4c4 Charles H. Conner. A Native of New Albany, a Successful Business Man and a Christian Gentleman. Charles H. Conner was born in New Albany fifty-eight years ago, and died at Virginia Beach, Va., on Saturday, August 24, 1901, after an illness, following paralysis, of five years. He was a son of William Conner, a pioneer business man of this city. He was active, energetic and successful in business, popular in business, social and church circles, and a Christian gentleman, whose life and example is well worthy of emulation. He had been a member of the Second Presbyterian church of this city from his youth. In seeking relief from his malady that afflicted him, he sought the medical advice of the best physicians of this country and Europe, and while he improved for brief periods, there was a recurrence of the disease that finally claimed his life. He leaves a wife, three sons and four daughters. Mr. Conner was the founder of Winona, the noted Presbyterian resort on Eagle Lake, in Kosciusko county, and the first President of the Association. Owing to ill health he had to decline reelection. Mr. Conner's body will arrive in the city to-night and be taken to the residence of Mr. John P. Bentley, 206 East Spring street. The funeral will take place from the Second Presbyterian church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. [d: 08-24-1901]

New Albany Daily Ledger 08-27-1901 p4c2 The remains of Charles H. Conner arrived Monday night from Virginia Beach, Va., and were taken to the residence of John P. Bentley, East Spring street. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from the Second Presbyterian church. The pall-bearers will be: Charles Van Dusen, Wilson W. Godfrey, Jefferson Conner, Edward Scribner, W. T. Lewis and Samuel Vance. [d: 08-24-1901]

New Albany Daily Ledger 08-28-1901 p4c1 The funeral of the late Charles H. Conner, this morning, was largely attended by relatives and friends. The religious services were held at the Second Presbyterian church, and the interment was in the family lot at Fairview cemetery. His life was full of usefulness and good works and he rests in peace. [d: 08-24-1901]

Fairview Cemetery, Vol. V, p. 18 CONNER, Charles Horace; 12595; 58 yrs.; bur 28 Aug 1901; P4 R6 Lot 26 G4; Dr. I. N. Graham; Cerebral endoritis; Dr. Howard Fisher; Merker & Gwin [d: 08-24-1901]

New York Times 05-25-1902 Death List of the Week. ATTERBURY – Suddenly, on Monday, May 19, 1902, John Colt Atterbury, son of the late John Guest Atterbury, in the 54th year of his age. Corner Manor Road and Delefield Avenue, West Brighton, S.I.

New York Times 06-09-1916 ALLEN A. ATTERBURY DIES. Retired Steel Merchant of Detroit Was Brother of Railway Official. Allen A. Atterbury, a retired steel merchant of Detroit, Mich., and a brother of Wallace W. Atterbury, First Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died yesterday in his apartments in the Hotel McAlpin, where he had lived for the last three months. He was living at his home in Italy, the Villa Margarita, in Castlenarre de Stabia, when the war began and after traveling for a year and a half, had gone to live at the McAlpin. Mr. Atterbury was a son of the late Rev. Dr. John G. Atterbury, and was born in New Albany, Ind. He was in his sixtieth year, and before his retirement was widely known in Detroit and the Middle West. Mr. Atterbury was a Mason and a member of the Detroit Club, the Detroit Country Club, the Detroit Racquet and Curling Club, the Fine Arts Society, the Yonatega and the Old Clubs of Detroit. He was also a member of the Lambs Club of this city. His wife was with him when he died.

New Albany Daily Ledger 08-28-1917 p1c6 ATTERBURY A NEW ALBANY BOY. W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, who soon will go to France to assist in the construction and operation of railroads for the transportation of troops, munitions and supplies, is a former resident of New Albany. Mr. Atterbury has been granted a leave of absence by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and it is expected that he will sail soon. Mr. Atterbury is a son of the Rev. Dr. John Atterbury, who at one time was pastor of the First Presbyterian church. He earned his early education in the New Albany schools and spent a good part of his boyhood in New Albany. Atterbury is a brother of the late Mrs. Charles [Conner], formerly of New Albany.

New Albany Weekly Ledger 11-20-1931 p5c1 Woman's Ashes Interred Here – Remains of Gen. Atterbury's Sister Brought Here By Lady Reckitt of London – Ashes of Mrs. Katherine Conner, widow of Charles H. Conner, formerly of this city, and a sister of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who died February 17, were buried in Fairview Cemetery beside her husband. Lady Julia Reckitt, London, England, a daughter, accompanied the remains from Washington, D.C., where they had been kept in a vault, and left immediately for the West after the services. Mrs. Conner was a daughter of the late John G. Atterbury, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. [d: 02-17-1931]

Fairview Cemetery, Vol. VIII, p. 27 CONNER, Katherine Boudnal; 20568; 86 yrs; res Wash. DC; d 17 Feb 1931; bur 13 Nov 1931; P4 R6 Lot 20 G2 (Ashes); (Rev. J. G. Atterbury); Lobar pneumonia; A. Lincoln Cromatra; Harold K. Johnson [nee Boudinat d: 02-17-1931]

New Albany Tribune 09-21-1935 p1c1 NOTED RAIL HEAD NATIVE OF CITY. Stroke Proves Fatal In Long Illness; Served Nation In France During War. STARTED CAREER IN SHOPS. Gen. William Wallace Atterbury, 70, native of New Albany, retired president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and war-time transportation expert for the American government died Friday in Philadelphia where he resided. He passed away in Byrn Mawr Hospital after a long illness following a stroke of apoplexy. He had been ill since July, 1934. In April he retired from the presidency of the railroad he had held since 1925. Gen. Atterbury was born in New Albany, January 31, 1866, the son of the Rev. John Guest Atterbury, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, which was later succeeded by the Hutchinson Memorial Presbyterian Church. Dr. Atterbury held the local pastorate from August, 1851 to July, 1866. The year after his son was born, the minister died and the family removed to Detroit. Mrs. Charles Conner was a sister of the railroad executive.

In later years Gen. Atterbury took an active interest in politics for some time. He became a leader in Republican Party councils in Pennsylvania, was elected to the national committee and served as delegate to several conventions.

Gen. Atterbury was graduated from Yale University, in 1886, and received degrees from Vila Nova College in 1927 and Temple University in 1929. He began as a railroad apprentice in the shops at Altoona, Pa. He became road foreman on various divisions of the same road later and served as master mechanic of the Pennsylvania system at Ft. Wayne from 1893-96. He then served as general superintendent of motive power lines of the Pittsburg-Erie System from 1896 to 1903. From 1903 to 1909 he was general manager of the latter railroad and from 1909 to 1911 he served as fifth vice president of the Pennsylvania. In 1912 he was vice president of the same in charge of operations.

Granted a leave of absence August 1917, to direct construction and operations of the United States military railways in France he served until 1919 when he returned to this country and rejoined the Pennsylvania system. He was named vice president of the road without designation in 1924 and in 1925 he was elected president.

Gen. Atterbury also served as director of many large corporations, and was a member of the leading scientific, educational and commercial organizations of the country.

Surviving are his widow and three of his sons, William Wallace Jr., a student at Yale, Malcolm Atterbury and George R., a Harvard student, and a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Connelly of suburban Radnor.

New York Times 12-05-1950 DR. L. CONNER DIES; HEART SPECIALIST. Department Head at Cornell Medical 16 Years Was Chief of Services at N.Y. Hospital. Dr. Lewis A. Conner of 11 West Eleventh Street, a leading American authority on heart disease, who was one of the original incorporators of the American Heart Association in 1924, died yesterday in New York Hospital after an illness of five weeks. He was 83 years old.

Born in New Albany, Ind., a son of Charles Horace Conner and the former Katherine Boudinot Atterbury, Dr. Conner received the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy from the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale in 1887. Three years later he was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia.

In 1898, the year of its foundation, Dr. Conner began his long association with the Cornell University Medical College here. He was appointed Professor of Clinical Medicine in 1900, occupying that chair until 1916, when he succeeded Dr. W. Gilman Thompson as Professor of Medicine. He held that post until 1932.

Since 1890, Dr. Conner had been connected in various capacities with the New York Hospital. As head of the department of medicine at Cornell Medical College, he was the guest of honor at the dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria on April 21, 1932, celebrating the union of the Medical College and the New York Hospital. It was stated on that occasion that Dr. Conner had been head of the College's department of medicine since 1916, and was then an attending physician and chief of service at the New York Hospital.

It was recalled, also, that he had served in the Spanish-American War as a private, and in the first World War as a brigadier general, Army Medical Corps. Since 1932, when Dr. Conner retired from most of his active practice, he had limited his work largely to consultation.

Dr. Conner was the founder of the American Heart Journal, which he edited from 1925 to 1938. He was a fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine, a member of the American Association of American Physicians, the American Medical Association and the University Club.

He leaves his second wife, who was Laila Ann Coston at their marriage in 1923; their daughter, Mrs. George B. Rossiter of Dayton, Ohio; three children by his first marriage to the late Emma Witt Harris, Mrs. Anthony H. Brackett of Hingham, Mass.; Mrs. James Campbell and William H. Conner, and a brother, Charles Horace Conner. [d: 12-04-1950]

New Albany Tribune 12-07-1950 DR. LEWIS CONNER, NEW ALBANY NATIVE, DIES. Word has been received here of the death of Dr. Lewis A. Conner, a native of New Albany, Sunday in New York hospital. He was 83 and a leading American authority on heart disease. He was one of the original incorporators of the American Heart Association in 1924. He was born in New Albany, son of Charles Horace and Katherine Boudinot Atterbury Conner; attended Yale and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbus and began a long career with the Cornell university of medicine upon its founding in 1898. He served in the Spanish-American war and First World War. Surviving are the wife, four children, and a brother. [d: 12-04-1950]

New Albany Tribune 08-28-1967 p4c4 ROLLING BACK THE YEARS (50 Yrs Ago) W. W. Atterbury, vice president of Pennsylvania Railroad Company, who soon will go to France to assist in the construction and operation of troops, munitions and supplies, is a former resident of New Albany, Mr. and Mrs. Atterbury has been granted a leave of absence by the Pennsylvania Railway Company and it is expected that he will sail soon.